In this side event, the main findings and recommendations from the first year of the Clean Energy Ministerial (CEM) campaign on “Long-term energy scenarios for the clean energy transition” (LTES campaign) will be presented. Followed by a series of country experiences on the use and development of long-term energy scenarios. IRENA then seeks feedback from the participants on how to expand this work on long-term energy scenarios beyond CEM to include IRENA member countries through its newly launched Energy Transition Scenario Network (ETS-Net) and other programmatic activities.
